Content : Chapter I General Principles

Article 1

These Regulations are adopted under Article 97, paragraph 2 of the Futures Trading Act (the "Act").

Article 2

The financial reports of a futures exchange organized as a company ("company-type futures exchange") shall be prepared in accordance with these Regulations and other applicable laws and regulations. Matters not provided for therein shall be governed by generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP).

The GAAP described in the preceding paragraph shall mean the following, as recognized by the Financial Supervisory Commission (FSC): International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS), International Accounting Standards (IAS), and Interpretations developed by the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC) or the former Standing Interpretations Committee (SIC).

Article 3

A company-type futures exchange shall establish an accounting system based on the nature of its accounting matters, the actual conditions and development of its business, and its management needs.

The accounting system referred to in the preceding paragraph shall separately provide the following items, based on the nature of the company-type futures exchange's business operations, and in a way that meets the needs of preparation of the consolidated financial reports and uniformity in the accounting policies of the company-type futures exchange and its subsidiaries:

1. A general description of the accounting system.
2. A chart of journals and ledgers.
3. Accounting items, accounting documents, account books, and accounting reports.
4. Accounting procedures.
5. Other items required by the FSC.

The company-type futures exchange shall see to it that its subsidiaries establish their accounting systems in accordance with the preceding paragraph.

Article 4

The appointment and discharge of the in-charge accountant of a company-type futures exchange shall be approved by a majority of the directors present at a board of directors meeting attended by a majority of the directors, and shall be reported to the FSC for approval or recordation within 5 days after appointment or change.

Article 5

A company-type futures exchange shall use the calendar year as its financial year, with accounts closed on June 30 for the first half of the financial year and on December 31 for the whole financial year.

The accrual basis of accounting shall be used.

Accounts shall be expressed in New Taiwan Dollars (NT$).

The dollar amounts in the financial statements may be presented in thousands of NT dollars rounded to the nearest thousand.

Article 6

"Financial reports" shall mean financial statements, statements of major accounting items, and any other disclosures and explanatory information helpful to the decision making of users.

A complete set of financial statements shall comprise a balance sheet, a statement of comprehensive income, a statement of changes in equity, a statement of cash flows, and their accompanying notes or supplementary schedules.

A company-type futures exchange, unless newly established, or under any of the circumstances set out in paragraph 4 herein, or otherwise required by the FSC, shall prepare the major financial statements and notes described in the preceding paragraph by presenting comparative information for two consecutive periods. The major financial statements shall also be signed or sealed on each page by the company-type futures exchange's responsible person, managerial officer, and in-charge accountant.

When a company-type futures exchange applies an accounting policy retrospectively or makes a retrospective restatement of items in its financial statements, or when it reclassifies items in its financial statements, it shall do so in accordance with the applicable provisions of IAS 1.

Article 7

Financial reports shall be able to present fairly the financial position, financial performance, and cash flows of a company-type futures exchange without being misleading to an interested party in making judgments and decisions.

If a financial report violates these Regulations or any other applicable requirements, for which the FSC as a result of an audit gives a notice requiring adjustment to be made, the company-type futures exchange shall make the required adjustment and correction. If the adjusted amount reaches the threshold set forth in Article 6 of the Securities and Exchange Act Enforcement Rules, the financial report shall be restated and submitted to the FSC.

Article 8

The following shall apply when a company-type futures exchange makes an accounting change:

1. Change in accounting policy:

A. When a company-type futures exchange changes an accounting policy voluntarily in a new financial year in order to produce financial reports that provide reliable and more relevant information about the effects of transactions or other events or conditions on the company-type futures exchange's financial position, financial performance, or cash flows, it shall request a certified public accountant (CPA) to provide an item-by-item analysis and review opinion on the reasonableness of the nature of the change in accounting policy, the reasons why applying the new accounting policy provides reliable and more relevant information, each line item affected and the estimated effect for the financial year preceding the earliest financial year affected by retrospective application of the new accounting policy, and the actual effect on the opening balance of retained earnings for the immediately preceding financial year. These shall be submitted as a proposal for adoption by resolution of the board of directors, after which they shall be submitted to the FSC for approval.

B. If, for the voluntary change in accounting policy in the new financial year, it is impracticable to determine either the period-specific effects or the cumulative effect of the change, as described in paragraph 23 of IAS 8, the company-type futures exchange shall calculate the effects in accordance with paragraph 24 of IAS 8 and the preceding item above, and shall request a CPA to provide an item-by-item analysis and review opinion on the reasonableness of the reasons why retrospective application is impracticable and how and from when the change in accounting policy has been applied, and also provide an opinion on the impact on the audit opinion for the earliest financial year affected by the change in accounting policy for which an application is submitted to the FSC for approval. The company-type futures exchange shall then follow the procedure described above.

C. Unless it is impracticable to determine the effects as described in the preceding item, then within 2 months after the beginning of the financial year in which the new accounting policy is adopted, the company-type futures exchange shall calculate the line items affected and the actual effect for the financial year preceding the earliest financial year affected by retrospective application of the new accounting policy and the actual effect on the opening balance of retained earnings for the immediately preceding financial year, and shall submit those for adoption by the board of directors, after which they shall be submitted to the FSC for recordation. If the difference between the actual effect of the change in accounting policy and the effect originally filed with the FSC is NT$10 million or more, and is also 1 percent or more of net operating revenues for the immediately preceding financial year, or 5 percent or more of paid-in capital, the company-type futures exchange shall analyze the reasons for the difference and request a CPA to provide an opinion on its reasonableness. The analysis and the CPA's opinion shall also be filed with the FSC.

D. Except when applying a new accounting policy to newly purchased assets, in which case the provisions of the preceding items need not be applied, if a change in accounting policy is applied without having been duly filed for approval, the financial reports for the financial year in which the new accounting policy was applied shall be restated, and the new accounting policy may only be applied from the next financial year after a supplementary filing has been made and approved.

E. If the shares of a company-type futures exchange have a par value other than NT$10, for the calculation of the 5 percent of paid-in capital under item C, 2.5 percent of the equity attributable to owners of the parent as stated in the balance sheet shall be substituted.

2. For any matter among accounting estimates in relation to a change in the useful life or depreciation method of depreciable assets, a change in the amortization period or amortization method of intangible assets, or a change in the residual value of any such assets, in addition to complying with item D of the preceding subparagraph, a company-type futures exchange shall request a CPA to provide an analysis and review opinion on the reasonableness of the nature of the changes in accounting estimates and the reasons why the changes in accounting estimates can provide reliable and more relevant information. Those changes in accounting estimates shall then be submitted as a proposal for adoption by resolution of the board of directors, after which they shall be submitted to the FSC for approval.

Article 9

A company-type futures exchange shall prepare consolidated financial reports in accordance with Chapter II of these Regulations and IFRS 10, and shall prepare annual parent company only financial reports in accordance with Chapter IV of these Regulations.

A company-type futures exchange that does not have a subsidiary shall prepare individual financial reports in accordance with Chapter II of these Regulations, and when preparing annual individual financial reports shall also prepare statements of major accounting items in accordance with Article 25 of these Regulations.

As a minimum, current assets shall include the following asset line items:

1. Cash and cash equivalents:

2. Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss - current:

A. Financial assets not measured at amortized cost or at fair value through other comprehensive income.

- The company-type futures exchange holds the financial assets within a business model whose objective is achieved by both collecting contractual cash flows and selling financial assets.
- The contractual terms of the financial asset give rise on specified dates to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

B. Equity investments not held for trading, for which the entity has irrevocably elected at initial recognition to present changes in fair value in "other comprehensive income," and which may not be re-recorded after being recognized.

C. The company-type futures exchange shall establish evaluation and assessment working procedures and collect reasonable supporting evidentiary information of its business model, contractual cash flows, and equity investments not held for trading, and the related control measures shall be incorporated into its accounting system.

4. Financial assets measured at amortized cost - current, meaning all of the following conditions are met:

A. The company-type futures exchange holds the financial assets within a business model whose objective is to hold the financial asset to collect the contractual cash flows.

B. The contractual terms of the financial asset give rise on specified dates to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

C. The company-type futures exchange shall establish evaluation and assessment working procedures and collect reasonable supporting evidentiary information of its business model, contractual cash flows, and equity investments not held for trading, and the related control measures shall be incorporated into its accounting system.

6. Trade receivables: Means the entity has an unconditional contractual right to consideration for services that have been transferred:

A. Trade receivables shall be measured in accordance with IFRS 9. However, short-term trade receivables with no stated interest rate may be measured at the original invoice amount if the effect of discounting is immaterial.

B. With respect to discounted or transferred trade receivables, an assessment shall be made to determine whether the risks and rewards of the trade receivables, and the control retained over them, will qualify them for derecognition in accordance with IFRS 9.

C. Trade receivables from related parties in significant amounts shall be presented separately.

D. The company-type futures exchange shall disclose an aged analysis of trade receivables.

7. Other receivables refers to receivables other than trade receivables.

1. Investments accounted for using the equity method:

A. The valuation and presentation of investments accounted for using the equity method shall be made in accordance with IAS 28.

B. When investment gain or loss is recognized, if the financial reports prepared by an associate do not conform to these Regulations, those financial reports shall first be adjusted to achieve conformance before they may be used to recognize investment gain or loss. The financial reports of an associate used in applying the equity method shall be prepared as of the same date as that of the company-type futures exchange, and if prepared as of a different date, adjustments shall be made for the effects of significant transactions or events that occur between that date and the date of the company-type futures exchange's financial reports. In no case shall there be more than 3 months difference between the balance sheet date of the associate and that of the company-type futures exchange. If a CPA determines, pursuant to Statement of Auditing Standards No. 51, that an associate has a material effect on the fair presentation of the financial reports of a company-type futures exchange, the financial reports of the associate shall be audited by a CPA in accordance with the Regulations Governing Auditing and Certification of Financial Statements by Certified Public Accountants and generally accepted auditing standards.

C. If an investment accounted for using the equity method is pledged as collateral or otherwise subject to any restriction or limitation, that fact shall be noted.

B. Property and equipment shall be subsequently measured using the cost model and accounted for in accordance with IAS 16.

C. Each component of property and equipment that is significant shall be depreciated separately. The depreciation method used shall reflect the pattern in which the asset's future economic benefits are expected to be consumed. If that pattern cannot be determined reliably, the straight-line method shall be used. The depreciable amount should be allocated on a systematic basis over the asset's useful life.

D. When items of property and equipment have different useful lives, or provide economic benefits in different ways, or are subject to different depreciation methods or depreciation rates, the notes shall show each class of their material components.

3. Right-of-use assets:

C. The amortization method used shall reflect the pattern in which the asset's future economic benefits are expected to be consumed. If that pattern cannot be determined reliably, the straight-line method shall be used. The amortized amount of an intangible asset shall be allocated on a systematic basis over its useful life.

6. Deferred tax assets: The amounts of income taxes recoverable in future periods in respect of deductible temporary differences, the carryforward of unused tax losses, and the carryforward of unused tax credits.

The allowance for losses shall be classified as subtraction from financial assets measured at amortized cost, futures trading margins receivable, deduction from receivable and other receivables. Where the listed items are more specifically classified, the allowance for losses shall be shown separately accordingly.

A company-type futures exchange shall assess as of each balance sheet date whether there is any objective evidence of impairment for the items described in paragraphs 3 and 4 in relation to available-for-sale financial assets, financial assets measured at cost, debt instrument investment for which no active market exists, held-to-maturity financial assets, futures trading margins receivable, trade receivables, other receivables, investments accounted for using the equity method, property and equipment, right-of-use assets, investment property measured using cost model, and intangible assets. If the recoverable amount of non-financial assets is determined on the basis of fair value less costs of disposal, disclose the extra information regarding the fair value measurement, including the level of the fair value hierarchy, the valuation techniques, and the key assumptions. If the recoverable amount is determined on the basis of value in use, disclose the discount rate for value in use measurement.

The items described in paragraphs 3 and 4 in relation to financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, financial assets measured at fair value through other comprehensive profit or loss, financial assets measured at amortized cost, financial assets for hedging, shall be distinguished as current and non-current based on liquidity.

4. Financial liabilities for hedging - current:

9. Liabilities directly associated with non-current assets held for sale: Refers to any liability included in a disposal group held for sale that is available for immediate sale in its present condition subject only to terms that are usual and customary for sales of such disposal groups, and whose sale must be highly probable.
