1. Graduate of a domestic or foreign junior college or higher-level institution, or the equivalent; four or more years of work experience in financial institutions, with excellent performance in such position;
2. Six or more years of work experience in financial institutions, with excellent performance in such position;
3. Other sufficient factual evidence of professional knowledge in finance or financial management experience, and ability to soundly and effectively operate financial institution business.

Article 6

The maximum number of operational employees of a mini-branch shall be eight, and shall conform to security maintenance and internal control principles. However, the maximum number of operational employees may be increased to 10 persons if the mini-branch provides small and medium enterprise loans.

Article 7

An application by a financial institution to establish new mini-branches shall be submitted together with the application to establish new domestic branches in the current fiscal year; the business plan shall specify the following:

- 1 The status of business unit expansion over the past three years.
- 2 Market location.
- 3 Business management analysis (including business items, organizational system, personnel deployment and related facilities).

Article 8

For existing branches with eight or more operational employees that have been approved by the Commission, using the application documents prescribed by the Commission, a financial institution may submit an application including its plan for trade-off of any such branches for mini-branches together with its plan to establish any domestic branches in the current fiscal year.

The trade-off plan referred to in the preceding paragraph shall specify the following particulars:

1. The reason for the trade-off (including analysis of the operational status of existing branches).
2. The handling of rights and obligations with respect to existing customers or other substitute service methods.
3. The business plan of the mini-branch (including business operations analysis, target markets, and logistics operation plans for other case-processing operations on behalf of the head office).

Article 9

The aggregate number of new mini-branches and additional domestic branches for which applications are submitted by a financial institution in any fiscal year is subject mutatis mutandis to the provisions of Article 2 of the Regulations Governing the Establishment, Relocation, or Closure of Domestic Branches by Financial Institutions concerning the number of institutions that may be established.

When following the provisions of the preceding article, a financial institution may trade off a single existing domestic branch for two mini-branches.

The annual ceiling on the number of new mini-branches and additional domestic branches a financial institution may apply to establish in a fiscal year under paragraph 1 plus the total number of mini-branches it applies to create by trade-off of existing domestic branches in that fiscal year under the preceding paragraph is as follows:

1. Banks may not exceed eight.
2. Investment and Trust Companies may not exceed three.
3. Credit cooperatives may not exceed three.

For a financial institution that has not applied to establish any new mini-branches or additional domestic branches in a fiscal year, but will trade off existing domestic branches for mini-branches, the ceiling on the total number of mini-branches in a fiscal year is as follows:

1. Banks may not exceed ten.
2. Investment and Trust Companies may not exceed four.
3. Credit cooperatives may not exceed four.

Article 10

A financial institution may apply under the Program to Encourage Lending by Domestic Banks to Small and Medium Enterprises to trade mini-branches for, or change them into, domestic branches, and shall use the application documents specified by the Commission and annex a plan for the trade-off or change to domestic branches.

For a financial institution applying for trade-off in compliance with the preceding paragraph, two existing mini-branches may be traded off for a single domestic branch; for a financial institution applying to change mini-branches into branches in compliance with the preceding paragraph, one existing mini-branch may be changed into one domestic branch.

The plan to trade-off or change referred to in paragraph 1 shall specify the following:

1. Reason for the trade-off or change (including an analysis of the operational status of existing branches).
2. The handling of rights and obligations with respect to existing customers or other substitute service methods.
